Summer 2010

COUN 7340 Group Counseling
PSYC 7150 Biological Bases of Behavior . The Psychology Department has indicated that this class is likely to be offered approximately two summers out of three.
PSYC 7100 History of Ideas in Psychology. This class can be deferred to Summer 2011 or Summer 2012. Note that if you intend to go on internship in your fourth year, you cannot count on taking courses in the summer of your third year because some internship sites begin their internship year in the summer. PSYC 7100 is typically taught each summer.
PSYC 7190 Cognitive Psychology. The Psychology Department has indicated that this course will typically be taught in the spring and in the summer. As of this up-date (9/1/09) the course is scheduled to be taught in the spring of 2010, but the schedule for summer, 2010 is uncertain. Note that if you intend to go on internship in your fourth year, you cannot count on taking courses in the summer of your third year because some internship sites begin their internship year in the summer.

Students who have not substituted previously taken courses for Group Counseling and Biological Basis of Behavior should take COUN 7340 and PSYC 7150 and then choose between PSYC 7100 and PSYC 7190. Taking all four of the above courses in one summer would be an extremely heavy load for the summer.
